EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

CELEBRATING DIVINE PRESENCE IN DEVOTEES' HEARTS: There was once a Zen teacher who believed he was enlightened. When he met his Master, the Master gave him a koan, usually a paradoxical riddle that cannot be solved by logic alone. He said, "The statue has eyes, and the tears roll down silently." Hearing this, the teacher was shaken. What is this tear? It is the tear of devotion.

A student comes to a guru with tears in his eyes. When he leaves, tears flow again, but this time the quality of tears has changed. Salty tears turn sweet. It is so beautiful to cry in divine love, in devotion. If one has cried even once in love; they know the taste of it, taste of devotion. And the entire creation rejoices in it, longs for it.

Guru Purnima (July 10) is a celebration of the blossoming of such faith in a seeker. People say it is the day of guru. But truly, it is the day of devotee. The devotee reflects on journey within, grace received and how much he has grown on the path, with a deep sense of gratitude towards his master.

A student seeks information and learning, and a disciple seeks transformation or enlightenment. But a devotee is not there even for wisdom. He rejoices in love. He has fallen deeply in love with the master, with Infinity, with God. He doesn't care whether he gets enlightened or not. But in every moment, being immersed in Divine love is enough for him.

That is why devotion is so rare. Students are many, disciples are few, but devotees are very rare. Sariputra, one of Buddha's foremost disciples, attained enlightenment. Buddha asked him to go out into the world and carry on his work. But Sariputra wept uncontrollably. People asked him, "You are enlightened. Why are you crying so much?" He said, "Enlightenment could have waited. I miss the joy of being at the feet of my Master. That joy was greater than enlightenment." This is devotion, where even liberation pales in comparison to the sweetness of surrender.

To be God is not a big thing because everything is already Divine. Devotion flowering in someone's heart is rare, and that is a miracle. This Guru Purnima is a good opportunity to celebrate the Divine presence in the heart of a devotee. For when devotion blossoms, the divine rushes to embrace you silently, sweetly, completely.

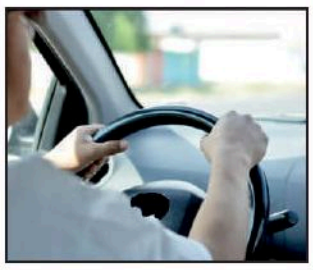
Sweden's cheese-infused unique coffee

Stockholm: Adding a bit of milk or cream to a cup of coffee is not strange, but in northern Sweden, they prefer a different kind of dairy with their coffee – cheese.

Kaffeost is a combination of hot coffee and a particular type of cheese called leipäjuusto, which loosely translates to "bread cheese." But there's no bread involved in this unusual combination, just cheese and coffee. The name most likely comes from the cheese's absorbent quality, which allows it to take on a surprising amount of coffee flavour after soaking for only a few minutes. The spongy texture may not be for everybody, but the taste is said to be more than worth it. Leipäjuusto is noticeably sweeter than your average block of cheddar, so adding a few pieces to your cup of coffee is surprisingly similar to adding cream, or milk and sugar to it.

Man forgets wife at gas station, realises 300 km later



Paris: A 62-year-old man in France put police on high alert after calling emergency services to report that he had forgotten his wife at a highway gas station and couldn't remember which one.

On July 5, a Paris man left on vacation for Morocco with his wife and daughter in the family car. They made several stops at gas stations along the way, but during one of these breaks, something peculiar happened. At around 4:30 in the morning, the man, whose name has not been revealed by the media, left the gas station without realising he had forgotten his wife there.

He only realised his mistake about 300 km (186 miles) later, and quickly called emergency services for help. It was a very bizarre conversation, as the man not only had to explain how he could have forgotten his wife at a gas station, but also had trouble remembering which gas station it was.

Land grab bid with forged records, fake heirs foiled

Village Administrative Officer thwarts deal to transfer inherited property through gift deeds

H.J. Nagaraj, Sr. Sub-Registrar (Mysuru East)

Mahesh, Tahsildar, Mysuru

Azeem Khan, Village Administrative Officer

By S.T. Ravikumar

Mysuru, July 11- A land mafia is active in Mysuru, illegally amassing crores of rupees by transferring and registering properties belonging to unsuspecting owners in the names of innocent individuals (by paying them a few thousand rupees) and then selling them off to gullible buyers.

Umera Khanum (original land owner)

Umera Banu (claiming as Umera Khanum)

In a recently unearthed case, the mafia exploited the name of a genuine landowner and, through another woman with a deceptively similar name, managed to execute gift deeds for land valued in crores. However, when an application for Khata registration was submitted to the Taluk Office based on this fraudulent gift deed, the file reached a vigilant Village Administrative Officer. His alertness and sense of duty exposed the fraud, ultimately ensuring that the high-value property remained with its rightful owner.

Man facing minor's kidnap case attacked

CCTV cameras capture violence against accused, his family on Ramanuja Road

Mysuru, July 11 (KS)- A man who had allegedly kidnapped his friend's minor daughter was brutally attacked with lethal weapons, along with his wife and mother, while they were travelling in an autorickshaw on Ramanuja Road 12th Cross in city last night.

The victim, identified as Rajanna, was in the auto with his wife and mother when a group of assailants in a black four-wheeler intercepted the vehicle and launched a violent assault on the three occupants using deadly weapons.

The incident, captured on CCTV cameras, occurred in full public view amidst moving traffic, sparking fear and panic among residents.

Sources revealed that Rajanna had allegedly lured his friend's minor daughter, a resident within the Vidyaranyapuram Police limits, into a relationship and had taken her away. A case under the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act had been registered against him in 2024.

Rajanna had reportedly appeared in the Court yesterday for the hearing. Around the same time, the girl again went missing, prompting her father to lodge a complaint with the Vidyaranyapuram Police, suspecting Rajanna's involvement.

The Police later traced the girl, brought her to the Station, closed the case and sent her back with her parents.

Rajanna, who had also come to the Police Station along with his wife and mother, left the premises in an autorickshaw after the girl was handed over to her family.

It was during their return that the group in the four-wheeler ambushed the auto and attacked Rajanna and his family with lethal weapons, according to Police sources.

Krishnaraja (KR) Sub-Division Assistant Commissioner of Police (ACP) Ramesh Kumar told Star of Mysore that all three injured persons were being treated at a private hospital in the city and are out of danger.

Loaders demand facilities

Lorry loaders (Hamaalis), under the banner of Karnataka State Loading and Unloading Workers Federation, staging a protest near the DC Office on Bannur Road in city yesterday.

Mysuru, July 11(GA&DM)- Alleging that they have been deprived of facilities such as PF, ESI and hike in wages, lorry loaders (Hamaalis), under the banner of Karnataka State Loading and Unloading Workers Federation, staged a demonstration near the Deputy Commissioner's Office on Bannur Road in Siddarthanagar here yesterday.

"It has been 12 years since the ration scheme was renamed as Anna Bhagya scheme. But the loaders and unloaders, who are very much part of the scheme, are facing a life of uncertainty, with no mandated facilities such as ESI and PF. The non-enforcement of Labour Laws, the Hamaalis are facing harassment from transport contractors," they maintained.

Maintaining that the workers are rendered injustice as the Food and Civil Supplies Department hikes wages without any guidelines, they demanded stipulation of wages (Loading and unloading charges) of Rs. 23.69 per quintal in case of retail transportation and Rs.10.92 per quintal for wholesale transportation of ration food grains.

Stating that though transport contractors have been cutting ESI and PF contribution from their wages since February, the loaders alleged that despite this, they are not given the benefits. They demanded full and timely payment of wages and proper ESI and PF coverage.

Federation State President Varadarajendra, District President Kari Nayaka, Secretary G. Mahadeva, Vice-President Narasimhamurthy, office-bearers Vikram Nayaka, Kumar, Krishnappa and others took part in the protest.

MUDA Site Scam

HC issues notice to CM's wife Parvathi

Mysuru, July 11 (BLU&VNS)- The High Court yesterday directed to issue notice to Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's wife B.M. Parvathi in the case related to the alleged MUDA illegal site allotment scam. While CM Siddaramaiah has been named as the first accused, his wife Parvathi is the second accused.

The High Court Division Bench headed by Acting Chief Justice V. Kameshwara Rao and Justice C.M. Joshi issued directions while hearing a petition filed by activist Snehamayi Krishna, who has appealed for a CBI investigation into the case.

The Division Bench issued the order to serve notice to Parvathi after it was informed about the delay in serving notice to the Chief Minister's wife. The Court questioned the authorities on the delay and instructed the notice to be served.

The Bench also heard the appeal filed by CM Siddaramaiah challenging the consent for prosecution granted by Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot against him in the alleged MUDA Site Scam. Later, the matter was adjourned to Sept. 4.

Replace barricades on Ring Road with speed-breakers

Sir,

Mysuru Traffic Police have installed numerous metal barricades, especially along the western stretch of the Ring Road.

These barricades are narrow and allow only one car to pass at a time. During peak hours or heavy traffic, multiple vehicles attempt to enter simultaneously, leading to traffic congestion, tempers flaring and heated arguments between drivers.

Heavy trucks and buses face considerable difficulty as cars and two-wheelers try to squeeze through tight gaps between larger vehicles. This chaotic situation poses serious safety risks.

It is suggested that these barricades be replaced with well-designed speed-breakers, which would allow multiple vehicles to move in parallel while still controlling speed.

Barricades are appropriate on highways where Police personnel are present for vehicle checks, but they are not suitable for daily use on busy city roads like the Ring Road.

Traffic authorities are requested to take note and consider replacing the metal barricades with rubber speed-breakers before a serious accident occurs.

'Freedom of expression is not a licence to be nasty'

Chitra Subramaniam, India's foremost investigative journalist, shares personal history behind the Bofors arms deal and her first major investigative report which shook the Rajiv Gandhi-led Congress Government at the Centre.

By Sujata Rajpal

Not many would go beyond the call of duty and dare to dive into murky waters, but Chitra Subramaniam is made from a different mould. She is renowned as the journalist whose ground-breaking exposé of the Bofors scandal rocked the nation and helped topple a Government.

Chitra was recently in Mysuru to speak about her newly released book 'Bofors Gate: A Journalist's Pursuit of Truth' at the Mysuru Literature Festival. On behalf of Star of Mysore, Sujata Rajpal caught up with her for a conversation on the Bofors story and much more.

Chitra also shares a special connection with Mysuru. Her great-grandfather, Rajasevasakta V. Subramanya Iyer, served as the Registrar of the University of Mysore from 1919 to 1927.

He was appointed as a Reader to His Excellency Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar, the then Maharaja of Mysore. Among his many contributions, one of the most notable was founding the Mysore Study Circle alongside the Swamis of Sri Ramakrishna Mission — a milestone in Mysore's intellectual and spiritual history.

Star of Mysore (SOM): You are best known for investigating the Bofors scandal. What drew you to that story?

Chitra Subramaniam: In March 1987, Swedish Radio reported that the Swedish arms company Bofors AB had paid large kickbacks to Indians to secure a contract for 155 mm howitzer guns. At the time, I lived in Geneva.

It was just a story on the radio, without any mention of the Indian Prime Minister's involvement. Still, the moment the story hit the wires, Rajiv Gandhi, the then PM, publicly stated, "Neither I nor my family is involved in Bofors." That immediately raised a red flag; I knew there was something worth digging into. It took a long time to find my sources, but eventually, I met an arms dealer who became a key source.

While the radio had reported a 3 percent commission in bribes, he told me it was closer to 12 percent on a deal worth 1.4 billion dollars. I was pregnant and had to travel a lot in search of the truth. What I didn't expect was that it would take ten years. Eventually, one of my sources handed me over hard evidence of 300 documents, which confirmed that I was right.

SOM: Did you have any inclination that it could bring down the government?

Chitra Subramaniam: Absolutely not. I was just investigating and then at some point, I thought I was touching something big. I've always been a patriotic person. I saw Rajiv Gandhi as a wave of change — young, dynamic and full of promise. He had pledged to clean up the country and I believed in that vision. I was young, too, ambitious and driven.

I wanted to do something meaningful for India, but I felt betrayed when his involvement became clearer. Though he didn't receive the money directly, he was protecting someone who received it.

SOM: This is the kind of stuff we watch in movies. Were you scared?

Chitra Subramaniam: I got really scared when I was offered a bribe, when my car's brakes were slashed and when the windows of the car were smashed. The more these things happened, the more I felt I must be doing something right. There were phone calls threatening my family, but my husband was my rock.

He encouraged me to go on after the truth. When I was scared, I would recite the Hanuman Chalisa, which I still do. I didn't know what I was getting into. I knew I was doing this for India. During those exhausting times, many people stood by me — Coomi Kapoor, Tavleen Singh and Madhu Trehan believed in me. You don't need a crowd to support you. Sometimes, just one or two people who believe in you are enough.

SOM: Beyond the threats, what were the other major challenges you faced for this investigation?

Chitra Subramaniam: In the pre-digital era, getting access to information was a monumental task. I would spend hours at the Commerce Registry in Geneva, sitting on the floor, going through thick files as I was pregnant and couldn't stand for long.

Everything took time — phone calls, faxes, waiting outside offices and meeting people quietly. Also, there was constant misinformation being floated. A story claimed that Amitabh Bachchan was involved and I was protecting him, which was false. I wasn't protecting him; I was protecting the integrity of the story. It was heart-breaking because I knew he was innocent, and it's difficult to prove one's innocence.

SOM: In today's world of fake news and misinformation, how does an ordinary reader separate fact from narrative?

Chitra Subramaniam: Five years ago, fake news felt like an overwhelming tsunami, but now people are smarter than we give them credit for. They have access to multiple sources and tools. If they're unsure about something, they can check it out for themselves, look up facts, compare stories and cross-reference. And for those who want to tell a story, there is no need to rush. Take your time. Build credibility and don't be afraid to take a stand.

SOM: Do you think freedom of expression is being misused and people are becoming more intolerant in the process?

Chitra Subramaniam: People confuse freedom of expression with the licence to be nasty. Equally true for journalists who have been given the privilege to shape narratives. Being nasty or sensational is not journalism. On the other side, readers have also become increasingly intolerant.

What I find truly missing today is respect for others' opinions, for age, experience or even basic decency. That kind of criticism is just noise. It needs to be called out, not with aggression but with facts.

Journalism is a noble profession. It's tough and there are no short-cuts. Don't be romantic about it. It's not about fame or breaking news every day. Journalists must speak the truth and protect the public interest. That is the role of a journalist and it's a role worth fighting for.

MGP meeting on July 13 to discuss UGD and related problems

Mysuru, July 11- It will be difficult to find one Mysurean who has not suffered because of the underground drainage (UGD) problem in the last 12 months either directly — sewage getting into the house — or indirectly — on the roads to avoid walking through it. It is not an exaggeration to state the obvious fact that the overflow of sewage has reached crisis situation in Mysuru a long time back.

However, only those who suffer directly approach the Vani Vilas Water Works (VVWW) to solve their individual problem. If lucky, you will reach the right and competent officials; otherwise you will have to run from pillar to post.

Keeping this worsening sewage issue in mind, Mysore Grahakara Parishat (MGP) has invited two officials from VVWW — AEE Musthafa and UGD AEE Nagaraj — for its monthly meeting on July 13 (Sunday).

These officials will give a clear picture of the sewage crisis Mysureans are facing and the aggrieved citizens can discuss their problems at the meeting.

Besides, the Superintending Engineer Manju along with his staff will discuss the tender MCC has given to stop the sewage flowing into Kukkarahalli Lake.

The meeting will be held on July 13 at MGP Office, 6/1 Vivekananda Road, Yadavagiri, at 4 pm. For details, contact Ph: 0821-2515150.

Heart attack phobia

Most Hassan victims had cardiac ailments: Minister

Expert Committee submits report on multiple heart attack deaths in Hassan

Bengaluru, July 11 (BS)- Health and Family Welfare Minister Dinesh Gundu Rao has allayed fears over heart attack fears that have heightened, especially after a spree of deaths caused due to heart attack was reported in Hassan and other districts in the State recently.

Following a report submitted by an Expert Committee headed by Dr. K.S. Ravindranath, Acting Director of Sri Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences and Research (Jayadeva Hospital), Bengaluru, the Minister addressed media persons to share the findings of the report at Jayadeva Hospital yesterday.

He said, following the increase in incidents of sudden deaths due to heart attack among youths in Hassan, there was a widespread fear in public, with media reports too expressing apprehension over the surge in the number of deaths.

'No need for panic'

The Government had ordered a probe to ascertain the exact reasons behind these deaths, which has now ruled out any reasons for unnecessary panic. In May-June 2025, a total of 24 deaths due to heart attacks were reported in Hassan, and the Committee had probed into the nature of cardiac ailments in the district, he said.

Releasing the report, Minister Rao said, among the 24 deceased persons, 14 were aged below 45 years and 10 were aged above 45 years. Four deaths were triggered due to prolonged ailments related to the kidney, road accident injuries, colon infection and electric shock.

Dr. K.S. Ravindranath, Acting Director of Sri Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences and Research, Bengaluru, handing over the report to Health and Family Welfare Minister Dinesh Gundu Rao yesterday.

Only 10 confirmed cardiac cases

Of the remaining 20 deaths, 10 are confirmed cases of cardiac ailments. Three people had undergone bypass surgery, and after performing an angioplasty procedure, one among them had been suffering from dilated cardiomyopathy (heart failure), he stated.

While seven heart-related deaths are confirmed in the autopsy report, three others were confirmed through ECG tests. The remaining 10 deaths can be attributed to possible heart-related ailments, the Minister noted.

Among the deceased persons, 75 percent were severely vulnerable to cardiac-related ailments due to health conditions like diabetes, obesity, alcohol, smoking and blood pressure, added Rao.

"It is a matter of great concern that those aged 19, 21, 23, 32, 37, 38 and 43 met their untimely end, which will not be ignored. Six of the deceased persons were autorickshaw and cab drivers. They were not eating food on time, leading to somnipathy (sleep disorder) and stressful working conditions, according to the findings mentioned in the report," he said.

Lack of accurate data

In most cases, neither the deceased had any history of undergoing treatment at any hospitals before their death, nor a post-mortem was conducted in the cases of declaration of death at hospitals.

The lack of accurate data related to deaths, non-availability of clinical investigations (ECG and Cardiac Enzyme Test) and non-cooperation of the family members of the deceased were the impediments in finding out accurate reasons for deaths, he asserted.

Announcing precautionary measures, the Health Minister said, specific groups like that of school and college students, teachers, and gym trainers shall be imparted training in CPR and the Puneeth Rajkumar Hrudaya Jyoti programme will be extended to all Primary Health Centres (PHC) and Community Health Centres (CHC) across Karnataka.

MYSTIC'S MUSINGS

Yoga: A Science not a Religion

The United Nations declaration of June 21 as International Day of Yoga is a momentous one. But there has been so much misinterpretation over the years that it is more relevant now to look first at what yoga is not, so we know exactly what we are celebrating.

Is yoga a system of physical exercise? Is it a religion? Is it belief in god? Is it about becoming a good or moral person? These are common questions. The answer to all of them is no.

Standing on your head, twisting your body into all sorts of postures, is not yoga. Yes, there are yogic practices that involve the body. But fundamentally, 'yoga' means union. It means you have begun to experience the universality of who you are.

Modern science proves to you beyond doubt that the whole existence is just one energy manifesting in various forms. If this scientific fact becomes a living reality for you, if you begin to experience everything as one, you are in yoga.

Yoga is a science, not a religion. Just as there is a physical science for external well-being, yoga is a science for inner well-being. Because this science evolved in this civilisation — in the land between the Himalayas and the Indu Sagara (the Indian Ocean) — it was identified over time as Hindu. But terming it Hindu is akin to saying the theory of relativity is Jewish! Yoga has nothing to do with any creed or faith.

Does it entail a belief in god? No. Devotion can be a powerful and effective stepping-stone to your ultimate well-being. But devotion works only if you are a very childlike person.

If yours is a questioning mind, don't waste your time on devotion. If you happen to arrive at an overwhelming inner experience where your logic falls apart, that is different. Then devotion is natural and it can be explosive. But don't try to practice devotion. It won't work.

The question is, are you looking for solace or for a solution to your life? If you want solace, belief in anything is fine; it will settle you psychologically. If you want a solution, it's a different game. Yoga is a solution. No belief system is involved. It's about simply doing what works.

Does it entail a value system? No. If you experience yourself as one with everything, you don't need any values. That is the beauty of yoga. It is an experiential system.

If you experience everyone as a part of you, I don't have to instruct you: 'Be good to all.' Once inclusion happens, nobody needs to teach you any morals. When you are in yoga, the need to be good has itself disappeared!

This is also the difference between morality and spirituality. Spirituality is not about trying to fix or prescribe any values or morals. Prescribing will never work in the long run. Only that which is free will live totally and inclusively. Only that which is free will last.

After my own life-changing experience in 1982, I realised a state of freedom and joy is the birthright of every human being. When I saw that everyone is capable of this, I wanted to transform the world. We have touched a few million people since then. Some think that's a huge achievement. I don't.

For the first time we have the kind of information technology that allows us to reach the whole world. In this sense, we are more empowered than Adiyogi, Gautama Buddha or Patanjali!

In such times, we can inspire an entire planet of 7.2 billion to turn to this profound science of inner well-being. All those who have been touched and benefited by it should stand up and make this happen.

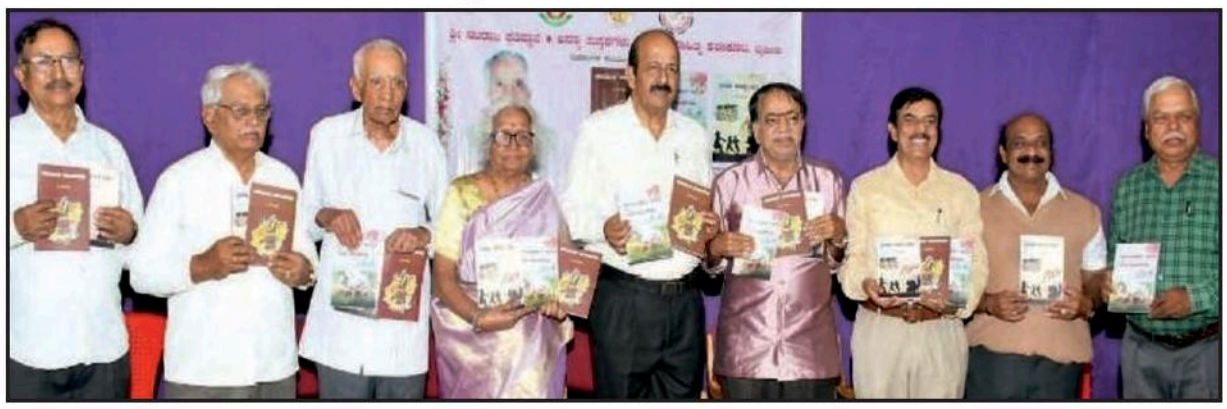
Retired professor regrets decline in reading, theatre interest



Mysuru, July 11 (GA&TRR)- Retired professor of St. Philomena's College, Prof. C.V. Sridharamurthy, expressed concern over the declining interest among citizens in reading books and watching plays. He emphasised the need to adapt to changing priorities to revive engagement in literature and theatre.

He was speaking at a book release function organised by Sri Nataraja Pratishtana, Mysuru, Ananya Pustakagalu and Kannada Sahitya Kalakoota, Mysuru at Nataraja Bhavan in the city. Three books authored by retired Physical Education Director C. Chamashetty — 'Chaturvidha Natakagalu', 'Negilayogi Mattu Itara Natakagalu' and 'Kavyalahari' — were released.

Prof. Sridharamurthy remarked, "Mahatma Gandhi once said books are a person's true friends, and this remains relevant. If literary works and plays cease due to lack of interest, it will create a cultural void. I commend the publisher for releasing three books despite such challenges."

He urged writers and artistes to remain optimistic and continue their creative endeavours while adapting to contemporary trends.

Prof. Morabada Mallikarjuna, Director, College Education Division, JSS Mahavidyapeetha, praised Chamashetty's contributions to society.

"Chamashetty has utilised his talents for the greater good. His students have excelled in State and national-level sports, and late actor Dr. Rajkumar appreciated his sports training in Singanallur," he said noting that Chamashetty's two mythological and socially relevant dramas reflect a sportsman's spirit.

Prof. S. Shivarajappa (Special Officer, Sri Nataraja Pratishtana), M. Chandrashekar (President, Kannada Sahitya Kalakoota), poetess Kerodi Lolakshi, writer Chamashetty and Publisher D.N. Lokappa were present on the occasion.

With the South West monsoon bringing in pleasant weather and waterfalls currently in full splendour, the Tourism Department is keen on capitalising on the seasonal appeal.

The proposed curated package tour will be implemented in coordination with both public and private players. Now, plans are underway to extend these trips into weekend or week-long curated tours, with clearly classified options for Government and private transport and accommodations," the official said.

The vaccination drive will take place in the following designated areas: J.P. Nagar, Ashokapuram, Vidyaranyapuram and Railway Station premises.

A team of dedicated veterinarian and veterinary assistants from PFA Mysuru will be on-site to administer the vaccinations.

All street dogs in these locations are eligible to receive free anti-rabies shots, stated a press release from PFA Mysuru.

"Rabies is a preventable disease and vaccination is the most effective way to control rabies. By vaccinating street dogs, we are not only safeguarding their well-being but also protecting the wider community. We encourage residents in the designated areas to support our efforts by allowing our teams to access the street dogs," the release added.

PFA Mysuru has been actively involved in animal welfare for many years, providing shelter, care and medical attention to sick and abandoned animals. This vaccination camp is a crucial step in their ongoing commitment to promoting animal health and responsible co-existence.

Land grab bid foiled

Following the detection of the fraud, H.J. Nagaraj, Senior Sub-Registrar at the Mysuru East Sub-Registrar's Office, lodged a complaint at the Mysuru South (Rural) Police Station.

Based on his complaint, a case has been registered under various sections of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS) - Sections 319(2), 318(4), 336(2), 336(3), 340 read with 3(5). The Sections deal with cheating by personation, offence of cheating, forgery to cheat, forged documents or electronic records and common intention.

The accused are Umera Banu (47), a resident of Nehru Nagar in Sathagalli near VTU College, Mysuru, who claimed as Umera Khanum and executed the gift deed, (her name in the FIR figures as Umera Khanum), Salma Sultan (24), also from Nehru Nagar, listed as Umera Khanum's daughter in the Sub-Registrar's Office records and the one in whose name the gift deed was executed, and witnesses Syed Irfan, Akram and Johar Alam, all from Ghousianagar.

Details of the case

Forty-three-year-old Umera Khanum, wife of Farveez Khan and a resident of Mahadevapura Main Road in Gayathripuram, Mysuru, owns 1 acre and 7 guntas of land in Survey No. 210/1 and 1 acre and 5 guntas in Survey No. 210/4 of Rammanahalli village. She inherited these lands from her father.

On June 5, (Umera Banu) a resident of Nehru Nagar, claiming and identifying herself as Umera Khanum, arrived at the Mysuru East Sub-Registrar's Office along with Salma Sultan, claiming she was her daughter.

She registered a gift deed, transferring 1 acre and 7 guntas of land in Survey No. 210/1 in favour of Salma Sultan. Later, on June 9, she returned to the office and executed another gift deed, this time transferring the 1 acre and 5 guntas of land in Survey No. 210/4 to Salma Sultan.

Application Khata transfer, inspection

Based on the gift deeds, intermediaries submitted an application at the Mysuru Tahsildar's Office to transfer the Khata in the name of Salma Sultan. As per procedure, the file was forwarded by the Revenue Inspector to Azeem Khan, the Village Administrative Officer of Rammanahalli, for inspection.

Upon reviewing the file, Azeem Khan noticed that Aadhaar seeding had not been done for the property. Realising this, he decided to first verify and complete Aadhaar seeding by meeting the landowners. With this intention, he visited the Nehru Nagar address mentioned in the registered documents.

Not Umera Khanum, but Umera Banu

When Azeem Khan arrived there, he found only a small hut at the given address. Doubting whether a woman owning property worth crores of rupees would actually be living in such a hut, he became suspicious.

Without revealing his identity as a Village Administrative Officer or the purpose of his visit, he told the woman that he had come for Aadhaar verification. When he asked her name, she said it was 'Umera Banu'.

When asked about her husband's name, she replied, 'Akram'. This confirmed to Azeem Khan that she was not the original landowner, Umera Khanum. Without saying anything further, he quietly left the place.

Search for Salma Sultan

Later, when Azeem Khan went in search of the address of Salma Sultan — who was claimed to be the daughter of the woman who executed the gift deed — he found that she too lived in a hut.

When he told her it was for Aadhaar verification and asked her mother's name, she replied 'Hatheejah.' This confirmed that she was not even the daughter of Umera Banu or Umera Khanum, for that matter.

Realising that the mafia had used these innocent women to fraudulently seize the prime land, Azeem Khan explained the matter to Salma Sultan.

He warned her that a conspiracy had been hatched to transfer land worth crores of rupees in her name and advised her to go to the Sub-Registrar's Office and cancel the registration. He cautioned that if she failed to do so, she could end up in jail.

Tracing the rightful owners

Later, noting that fake documents had been submitted in the file, Azeem Khan wrote a report stating that the Khata registration could not be processed and forwarded it to the Revenue Inspector.

However, the question of who the actual landowner was continued to trouble Azeem Khan, and he was determined to trace the rightful owner.

Eventually, Azeem Khan was able to locate the real landowner, Umera Khanum, from Gayathripuram. Upon collecting and verifying the original property documents related to the land, it was confirmed that the land rightfully belonged to her and had been inherited from her father.

Moreover, all the original documents related to the property were in her possession. Without delay, Azeem Khan brought her to the Mysuru East Sub-Registrar's Office and helped her file a complaint with Senior Sub-Registrar H.J. Nagaraju. After verifying all the documents, Nagaraju too filed a complaint with the Mysuru South Police Station.

Had Village Administrative Officer Azeem Khan not acted with a sense of duty — by deciding to ensure Aadhaar seeding for the property and personally going to Nehru Nagar in search of Umera Khanum — or had he not grown suspicious upon seeing the woman living in a hut and conducted his own informal investigation, the rightful owner, Umera Khanum, would have lost her property worth crores of rupees to others.

Rightful owner has the land now

Explaining how the fraud was uncovered, Rammanahalli Village Administrative Officer Azeem Khan said he initially believed the documents were genuine. It was only during a closer examination and a field visit for land inspection that discrepancies emerged, ultimately exposing the fraud.

"There is no achievement of mine in this. I simply did my duty, that's all. But the fact that the rightful owner was able to reclaim her property worth crores has given me immense satisfaction," he said.

Aadhaar card was forged to change the name

"When Umera Khanum filed a complaint stating that another woman had used her Aadhaar card and PAN card to execute gift deeds transferring her land to the woman's daughter, an investigation revealed that an Aadhaar card in the name of 'Umera Banu' had been forged by altering the name 'Banu' to 'Khanum.'

This fraud came to light thanks to the diligence of Rammanahalli Village Administrative Officer Azeem Khan. Had he processed the Khata transfer, the property would have ended up in the hands of others. Later, if the original landowner had approached the Court, even we officials would have faced trouble.

I have filed a Police complaint and initiated a criminal case in this regard. As for the current land registration, it must be cancelled either by the very people who registered it or through a Court directive. Until then, the registration technically remains in effect. We will keep a close watch on the matter."

— H.J. Nagaraj, Senior Sub-Registrar (Mysuru East)

Aadhaar seeding will prevent fraud

"If Aadhaar seeding is not done for land, it becomes possible to illegally transfer ownership of properties. When a property is Aadhaar-seeded, an OTP is sent to registered mobile number of property owner at the time of registration. Only upon entering that OTP does the registration process get completed. In this fraud case, property had not been Aadhaar-seeded."

— Mahesh, Tahsildar, Mysuru Taluk

Dead aquarium to come alive with penguins?

Forest Minister moots Penguin Park at unused aquarium structure between Mysuru Zoo and Karanji Lake

Bengaluru, July 11 (VNS)- Minister for Forest, Environment and Ecology Eshwar B. Khandre has directed officials to submit a proposal to establish a dedicated Penguin Park at the existing aquarium structure between Mysuru Zoo and Karanji Lake.

Presiding over the 159th Administrative Board Meeting of Zoo Authority of Karnataka (ZAK), at Vikasa Soudha in Bengaluru yesterday, he said that the experts had opined that the aquarium structure was suitable for a Penguin Park and instructed the officials to submit a proposal without delay.

The much-touted and long-pending world-class aquarium project at the Mysuru Zoo has been in limbo for over 13 years.

Entry ticket fee

Responding to ZAK's proposal to hike entry ticket fee by 50 percent to meet the rising costs of animal care and salaries of the staff, Khandre said that such steep hike would be unjustified and instead, he approved 20 percent hike in entry ticket prices for both Mysuru Zoo and Bannerghatta National Park.

However, he also mentioned there would be no hike in prices for safaris and hiring vehicles at the zoos. Currently, the Mysuru Zoo is charging Rs. 100 for adults and Rs. 50 for children between 5 and 12 years.

Khandre also outlined a roadmap to upgrade zoo infrastructure across Karnataka, aimed at boosting tourism and improving financial sustainability. He directed officials to explore animal exchange programmes with international zoos to enhance the appeal of Karnataka's zoos and increase visitor footfall.

He stressed that all zoos in the State must work towards becoming financially independent within the next five years by managing their own revenue and expenditure.

Bird park in Bidar

The Minister allocated Rs. 20 crore for the proposed aviary and exotic bird park in Bidar and instructed officials to prepare a Detailed Project Report (DPR). Additionally, he sanctioned Rs. 2 crore for Davanagere Zoo under Karnataka Mining Environment Restoration Corporation (KMERC) initiative, aimed at developing zoos in districts affected by mining activities.

Khandre further directed officials to ensure a quality visitor experience at all zoos and biological parks by providing clean drinking water, well-maintained rest rooms for both men and women and other essential amenities. The Forest Minister reiterated the strict enforcement on the ban on single-use plastic in zoos and biological parks.

Mysuru Zoo entry fee hiked by 20 percent

WORD OF THE DAY

Exemplary

Pronunciation: ig-ZEM-pluh-ree (adjective).
Meaning: Something described as exemplary is extremely good and deserves to be admired and copied.
Origin: It's usually not a good thing if someone wants to make an example of you, unless, of course, it's because you happen to be exemplary. Imitation being the sincerest form of flattery, someone or something may be deemed exemplary if they, by their example, are worthy of imitation. Like a few other English words beginning with ex — such as exceptional and extraordinary — exemplary describes that which is a cut above the rest. But though exemplary, which comes from the Latin noun exemplum ("example"), describes something "excellent," it almost always carries the further suggestion that the thing described is an excellent model to follow.
Example: "[Director, Oliver] Hermanus again shows highly polished craftsmanship, adding the subtlest hint of sepia tones to evoke the period in the early sections, but never to the point where the characters compete with the settings. His direction of actors is exemplary, even with characters seen only briefly..." —David Rooney, The Hollywood Reporter, 21 May 2025.

THE ODD WORD

Ecuelle

Two-handled soup or porridge bowl.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Knee Jerk Reaction

Meaning: You use the phrase 'Knee Jerk Reaction' to indicate that you've made an automatic response to something.
Origin: The expression 'Knee jerk reaction' comes from medicine, where the jerking motion the knee makes when tapped is called the patellar reflex. First seen in print in 1877, it became common in the early 20th century.
Example: "I hauled off and hit him when he jumped out at me. I know he was playing a trick, but it was a knee jerk reaction!"

Clouds come floating into my life, no longer to carry rain or usher storm, but to add colour to my sunset sky. — Rabindranath Tagore
